If it's your first time renting an apartment, though, the rental application process may be different than you imagined. Applying for the apartment can take a long time and requires you and your landlord to do a lot of work. For first-time renters, here's what you can expect the rental application process to look like:

The Rental Application Process | ApartmentGuide.com

Like a job application, an apartment application requires you to attach additional documents. Simply filling out the form with your information and a list of past apartments isn't enough. Your potential landlord needs more information to show whether or not you'll be a reliable tenant.

Apartment Application: What You'll Need | ApartmentGuide

The rental application process in New York City is notoriously intense. Renters have to prove their financial stability, demonstrate their employment history and often secure guarantors. And then on top of all that renters have to pay a broker's fee. It's a lot of work and money and not a lot of fun. To ensure [...]
