A style guide or manual of style is a set of standards for the writing, formatting and design of documents. It is often called a style sheet, although that term may have other meanings. These standards can be applied either for general use, or be required usage for an individual publication, a particular organization, or a specific field.

One of the questions that frequently seems to come up about AP Style writing rules is how to handle abbreviations and acronyms. Unfortunately, this is not one of the areas where the Associated Press Stylebook has a clear, hard and fast, rule.. Instead, the AP Stylebook entry for abbreviations says that abbreviations and acronyms can be used if they are common enough to be well known publicly.
