As both the imaging camera and guide camera are attached to the same mount, errors are corrected for both cameras, ensuring accurate tracking while imaging. However, the SynGuider is slightly different. It is a stand-alone autoguider, one that doesn't need a laptop or software to operate; all that's needed is a second telescope.

An autoguider is basically a camera that can either connect to your mount or a computer and tracks a specific star. When the selected star moves more than a specified amount away from the spot where it is supposed to be in the images the camera takes, it tells the mount to move a certain amount to keep that star dead in the center of the frame.
